THEY AVOID STRONG FORCES.

THE AMAZING ACTIVITY OF THE BOERS CONTINUES.

Brabant Has Two or Three Thousand Colonials in Fine Shape But is Cut Off

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, April 9.—The amazing activity of the Boers to the southeast and southwest of Bloemfontein is being continued. The Boer commanders are going and coming throughout this wide region apparently as they please, but take care not to throw themselves against strong bodies of British. The retirement of the Irish Rifles from Rouxville to Altway leaves Brabant without communication with other British forces, but he has two or three thousand Colonials in a fine defensive country, but so far as London is concerned, it knows that he is invested. Telegraphic and railroad communication with Bloemfontein is kept up as usual but nothing comes through for publication.

LETTER FROM MR. MEBANE.

Will Go Before Democratic Convention and Abide Its Action.

The following letter, received by a democrat in Greensboro, will interest many readers. It shows that its author thinks more of the cause of education than he does of office or politics:

My Dear Sir:—In reply to your inquiry I will say that I have decided to be a candidate before the democratic convention and this, of course, means that I will abide by the decision of said convention.

If I am turned down by the democratic convention I shall not be a candidate before either of the other political conventions, but shall retire to private life, taking with me the full assurance of an honest conscience that I have done what I could to promote the great cause of public education in North Carolina, and shall extend my best wishes and hearty support to the man who shall be the leader of the cause of the grand army of six hundred and forty thousand children for the next four years.

This work and its consequences is of far more importance to the state and the future welfare of our citizens than any other branch of our state government. This is a great truth that we as a people have not yet fully realized.

Yours truly,
C. H. Mebane, Sup't. Pub. Ins.

Something About the Cantata.

"Christ the Victor" is the last of a series of cantatos by Dudly Buck entitled The Christian Year. In this series Mr. Buck, who is one of the very best organists and composers in America, and president of the Metropolitan College of Music in New York, has related the chief events in the life of the Savior. Beginning with "The Triumph of David," next is "The Coming of the King," relating to the Messianic birth and prophecy. "The Story of the Cross" follows this, and is a history of the events of Good Friday. The last is "Christ the Victor," the work in course of preparation to be given on Easter Monday night. This work is complete in itself—a knowledge of the preceding numbers of the series is not necessary to a clear understanding of this composition.

The Euterpe Club, by whom the cantata is to be given, assisted by a number of the best singers of the city, was for a while undecided as to where the work should be presented, but as it is a religious service of a highly devotional character, the committee decided that the church was the most appropriate place, and the officers of West Market Street church having, with characteristic kindness, tendered the use of that church, the cantata will be given there.

The principal part of the work of preparation has been done, and this week will be devoted to putting together the solos and choruses and giving the final touches to the work as a whole.

Not only musicians, but the public at large, may expect a most interesting event, and the beautiful appropriateness of the work to the Eastertide will lend to it a peculiar interest.

Senatorial Primary Favored.

Raleigh Correspondence to Charlotte Observer.

The senatorial matter has been kept in the background, and very wisely, too. The matter of senatorial primaries is before the public. It is warmly favored. A newspaper in the northeastern part of the state suggests that the democratic state convention adopt a resolution declaring "that an election shall be held at the election precincts, on the day, and at the times and places appointed by law for the election of presidential electors and members of congress, for the nomination of a democratic candidate for United States senator, at which every democratic voter, after he shall have voted that day for the democratic candidates for electors and members of congress, shall be allowed to cast one ballot for one man for United States senator."

TODAY is yours, but no promise have you of tomorrow. Those tired, aching eyes need attention. To-morrow may be too late. Drs. Moore adjust glasses that will give relief.

The United States have no control over the buildings covering and must abide by the rules established. The United States National Pavilion does not come within this category and the question of its being opened or closed on Sundays the French officials have nothing to do. A RAZORBACK HUNT.

ROUNDING UP THE HOGS IS LIVELY AND EXCITING WORK.

The Experience of One Rancher Who, Instead of Doing His Butchering Out In the Hills, Attempted to Drive His Hogs to Market.

While it is generally accounted that the sheep and Angora goat furnish most of the revenues to the rancher in the broken and wooded country south of the Staked plains and west of the Colorado river, it is nevertheless a fact that the razorback hog contributes a full share. Probably there is no country anywhere better adapted to the production of cheap pork. The hills are covered with cedar and a great variety of scrub oak trees, and the canyons and river valleys are heavily wooded with pecan and Spanish walnut, so that there is always an abundance of excellent mast, and it might be mentioned that the cedar berries are considered equal to corn in lard producing qualities.

With this sort of feed, which is always abundant, the expense of care and feeding is removed, the animals simply running at large over the country, so that the only outlay required is that of the first cost of a few head for a start. Running loose in this way they are not subject to the diseases common to the hog in the sty or feed lot, and, being excellent fighters, they hold their own with the wolves and other wild animals which prey on the sheep and goats. Thus they multiply very rapidly.

In order to get the benefit of the increase in his stock, however, it is necessary for the rancher to get his mark on the pigs. As this, owing to the roughness of the country and the wildness of the sows, is no small task, it is generally the custom for all the hog owners in a given section to turn out together with their dogs and practically "round up" the range.

Compared with one of these "hog hunts" a cattle "round up" is a quiet and commonplace affair. On the morning appointed the dogs are turned loose and started out on a hog trail, and the men ride after them just as on a wolf chase. As the pigs cannot hold out very long one of them is soon caught, and his squeals bring back the rest of the bunch to his aid. As soon as the pig is free the sows form a circle around the pigs, from which they now and then dash out at their tormentors and all the while grunting like the rattling of a hundred old wagons. By the time the uproar has reached its full height the hunters ride up and hiss the dogs on to seize the sows. When one is caught, two men go to the assistance of the dog, one with a club to beat off the other hogs, the other with a bit of rope to tie the one seized. When all of them have thus been put out of the way of fighting, the pigs are caught and marked. Then the sows are given their liberty, and the dogs start out on a new trail. When it happens that there are hogs belonging to several different men, the pigs are simply divided.

While the work of "marking" is more like sport than labor it is not less exciting than that of getting the hogs ready for market, for as it is impossible to drive them any distance—even to the corrals at the ranches—it is necessary simply to butcher them out in the hills.

So along in the early part of the winter, after the new mast has fallen and the hogs are as fat as they will get, the ranchers load their wagons with salt, grub, kettles and lard cans, take their dogs and Winchesters and strike out for the hills. They make camp near some spring or water hole and then begin the work of "killing," which includes the rendering of the lard and salting of the meat. It is like a great hunt. Whenever a wagon load of lard and meat has been put up it is taken to the nearest ranch and left there until the "killing" season is over; then it is loaded again and freighted to the nearest railroad point, where it is sold at the market price.

It is said that only one man in that country ever tried driving his hogs to market. That was "Uncle" Ben Pepper, who lives a few miles above Junction City, on the South Llano river. He had, he supposed, about 300 head of fat hogs, and the idea of that "killing" worried him. So he hired all the men in the country, got all the dogs in Kimble and Edwards counties and "rounded up" all the hogs to be found. It was, of course, impossible to keep the herd together, and as it scattered Ben ordered his men to separate a little and keep moving toward Kerrville.

At noon on the fourth day the line was within half a mile of the Guadaloupe river, the men were half a mile apart and every dog worn out. Then Ben decided that he would like to know how many hogs he had, as after passing the Guadaloupe it would be impossible to see them in the open again. So he ordered the ends of the line to swing in and close up toward the river. It was nearly sunset when the circle was completed, and he climbed into a tall pecan so as to get a better view of the hogs when they should come swarming out into the river. He watched intently until night was falling; then he saw a lean, old sow emerge from the bushes and go down to drink, and a moment later the drivers began coming out. He nearly fell out of the tree. He has never tried driving since.—Kansas City Journal.

RAILROAD MEN.

One of the speakers before the Young Men's Christian Association Convention which has just adjourned in this city spoke most interestingly and appreciatively of that great body of men in the United States which areengag :d in the business of railroading, referring more especially, we take it, to that division of them which is directly engaged in the operation of the trains The speaker paid a most deserved tribute to their faithfulness under all circumstances.

His tributes were just and well deserved. Unless the subject is thus brought to our attention we are apt to overlook the monument to duty these men set up daily in their work. Every man who accepts a job as a member of a train crew takes his life into his hands, trusts his body to the god of accident, and walks under the ever open deadfall of danger as nonchalantly as the ordinary citizen walks the stree's And our utter confidence in his faithfulness and constant care is unbounded. Such a character has he built for himself that we trust our lives to his care more freely than to our own, relying with implicit confidence upon his faithfulness and his constant care and watchfulness. This habit of unconsciously relying upon him has grown upon us so that we do it without a thought, and when the news comes that the "engineer went down with his engine," we perhaps do not stop to enquire if he migth not have saved his own life had he cared less for others. And so the great surge of humanity goes backward and forward, and the million tons of commerce are daily hauled here and yonder and the man at the throttle or at the break gets scarcely a thought. But for that he does not pine! He works on cheerfully, contentedly, faithfully, loving his work and happy in its discharge.

IN AGREEMENT.

In the Salisbury Truth-Index of Saturday we find this statement:

"A recent editorial, which we believe to be for the welfare of the city, both morally and educationally, has caused the loss of a few subscribers, who hope to see immorality and vice prosper, and desire even to control the press. For every such subscriber we lose, we hope to add a goodly number who are on the side of right, and of all, who, if they do not approve all we advocate, are liberal and fair enough not to boycott us because of our advocacy of what we conscientiously believe right and best, but are willing to read and consider."

Experience has taught that the m n who attempt to boycott a paper that is daily working to the best of its ability for the uplifting of a community, because they happen to disagree with it in some opinion honestly expressed, are not the ones who are themselves in the van of those who are upbuilding and uplifting their locality. Of course this does not apply to a case where one has received unfair treatment at the hands of a newspaper. The paper that will say what it thinks to be for the best interest of its town and express its honest opinion on any question where an opinion is needed, saying what it believes carefully, temperately, candidly, with fairness and charity, is a blessing to a community, and as we have before said, the only kind that is really valuable. John Stewart Mill sets up, and with an iron like chain of logic, proves the proposition that if all the world save one man were unanimous in an opinion, they would have no right to enforce that opinion upon the dissenting individual.

The newspaper is today the greatest factor in moulding opinion in America, and the great responsibility attaching to it from this very fact is felt by none so much, as a rule, as by the men engaged in it. They will average up in intelligence and integrity quite as high as any class of men of the country. A man who has not a fit sense of the responsibility attaching to this profession ought to stay out of it, and we assert as our belief, that as a rule the men in the profession in North Carolina have this sense of responsibility well developed. If this be true it is folly to try to circumscribe and cripple them whenever they happen to have an opinion contrary to the prevailing ores. Rather, the more credit should be given them if they stand firm against every wind of opinion, and refuse to be influenced by individual whims. The newspaper that tacks its course to suit every little breeze that blows soon loses the respect of its readers as well as its power to do good. Give the newspaper man a free hand with his opinions, as long as he is fair and considerate of others. We quite agree with our contemporary that a self respecting newspaper must stand by what it believes to be right.

THE CHAIRMAN AND SECRETARY

As noted elsewhere, the executive committee of the Democratic party of this county Saturday afternoon elected Messrs. A. M. Scales and Z. V. Taylor to the responsible positions of chairman and secretary, respectively, of the committee, for the two coming campaigns. We say the two coming campaigns because their term of service will embrace both the State campaign which closes in August and the national one which ends in November.

We congratulate the party upon having two such zealous, discreet and faithful workers at the head of the campaign in the county. Their past excellent service is sufficient earnest of what they will do in the future. Either of the offices is one containing an overmeasure of work and an under-measure of thanks. Nearly the whole work of the campaign devolves upon them Of course they have the committee as an advisory board, and their counsel is helpful, but so far as the active work of a county campaign goes, the secretary and chairman have it to do. Again we congratulate the party on having for this year two such faithful servants as Messrs. Scales and Taylor.

AUSTIN SWEPT BY A FLOOD

IMMENSE DAM BREAKS AND CARRIES DESTRUCTION.

A Reservoir, Thirty Miles Long, Half a Mile Wide and Sixty Feet Deep, Gives Way.

Associated Press Dispatch.

Austin, Texas, April 7.—The city is in pitch darkness tonight, with a raging river one mile wide and swollen far beyond its natural banks roaring and surging through all the lower portions of the town, having spread destruction and death in its wake. In addition to the vast loss to property interests, it is calculated that between thirty and forty lives have been sacrificed, and the reports coming in from the tributary country tonight do not tend to improve matters. The flood is not unlike the disastrous Johnstown flood, some years ago, in that a raging river, already swollen far beyond its capacity, bore too heavily upon an immense dam spanning the river here, breaking it and letting loose a reservoir thirty miles long, half a mile wide and sixty feet deep, to aid in carrying destruction down the valley of the Colorado river. The great dam in the Colorado river gave way at noon today from the enormous pressure of water and debris and with a roar and crash swept the valleys below the city, wrecking the immense light and power plant, and drowning eight workmen.

Last Wednesday night it began to rain very hard at this place, the storm extending north of here along the water sheds of the Colorado river. The precipitation continued until this morning, the downfall aggregating six inches. All this vast quanity of water along the water sheds of the Colorado river rapidly swelled the current until at 8 o'clock this morning the river, which had been rising steadily since last evening, was a raging torrent, having risen 40 feet within ten hours.

After daylight this morning it became evident that the situation was serious. The river began to rise so rapidly that it was evident that the immense dam and all the power houses and contents, costing $1,500,000, were in imminent danger. To add to the terror of the situation, small frame houses, trees and debris of every description in varying quantities began descending the river and piling up against the upper face of the dam.

This weight was augmented every moment until by 10 o'clock there was a mass of debris lodged against the dam which threatened the safety of the structure. In addition, millions of gallons of water, muddied from its long Journey, was whirling and plunging to the sixty foot fall, and it was evident that no wall could stand the immense pressure. The crisis came shortly after 11 o'clock, when suddenly with a report like the roar of the ocean, the dam but served to add to the horror rolled out of the centre section of the dam down the face of the 60 foot depth into the river below. This left a yawning gap in the very middle of the dam through which the debris and water fiercely poured while the flood, already raging, was threatening everything in its path. This sudden breaking of the dam, but served to add to the horror of the catastrophe.

The released water poured into the power house, catching eight employes at work there, drowning all of them instantly. The breaking of the dam caused wild excitement in the city. The telegraph companies at once wired to places below here to look out for the great wave and runners were dispatched on horses to notify those living in the valleys below the city. The telegraphic messages served as a timely warning to many, but the rushing waters outstripped the horsemen and many houses were picked up and swept away before the occupants could get together their valuables.

Within a short time all the valleys to the south and west of Austin were filled to overflowing with water and the southern part of the city tributary to the river was inundated. Large crowds collected on the river banks and several persons were swept into the river when the dam broke, but all were saved by boatmen. A crowd of white people, numbering about 30, living just below the dam, in tents, were seen at their habitations just before the dam broke and have not been accounted for since.

FOR THE BABIES.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucous, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. Asylum Officers Are Not Supplicants.

Charlotte Observer.

Referring to the lack of hospital room for the insane of the State, the Wilmington Messenger, concluding a sympathetic and well considered editorial, says:

"The people of good hearts and much human sympathy must move in this matter. The insane should be carefully and generously provided for. All philanthropists, and all who love Christ and their fellowmen must act and see to it that the unfortunate insane shall not be longer neglected but protected and helped."

The case herein is truly stated. This matter is one for the legislature—the representatives of the people. The Observer feels warranted in saying for the State Hospital at Morganton—whose territory embraces a good deal more than half of the State and in whose district there are 300 to 500 lunatics who should be there who are not there—that its management is tired of going before legislative committees and begging for appropriations which are necessary in order to discharge what may be called "our plain duty." Those appearing before these committees are put in the attitude of supplicants for personal favor, whereas what they are doing is at personal sacrifice and without compensation. So far as the State Hospital at Morganton is concerned, its needs will hereafter be presented with dignity before the legislature, and after that its members may reckon with their constituents.

ECZEMA = SATANIC ITCH.

This most aggravating and tormenting of all skin diseases is caused by an acid condition of the blood, and unless relieved through certain instrumentalities too much of this acid poison reaches the skin and it becomes red and inflamed. The itching and burning are almost unbearable, especially when overheated from any cause. The skin seems on fire, sleep or rest is impossible, the desperate sufferer, regardless of consequences, scratches until strength is exhausted.

This burning, itching humor appears sometimes in little pustules, discharging a sticky fluid, which forms crusts and scales. Again the skin is dry, hard and fissured, itches intensely, bleeds and scabs over. This is a painful and stubborn form of the disease.

While Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum and many like troubles are spoken of as diseases of the skin, they are really blood diseases, because

THERE CAN BE NO EXTERNAL IRRITATION WITHOUT AN INTERNAL CAUSE.

If the blood is in a pure, healthy condition, no poisonous elements can reach the skin.

External applications of washes, lotions and salves sometimes mitigate the itching and soothe the inflammation, but cannot reach the disease. Only S. S. S., the real blood medicine, can do this.

S. S. S., the only purely vegetable remedy known, is a safe and permanent cure for Eczema and all deep-seated blood and skin troubles. It goes direct to the seat of the disease, neutralizes the acids and cleanses the blood, re-inforces and invigorates all the organs, and thus clears the system of all impurities through the natural channels; the skin relieved, all inflammation subsides, and all signs of the disease disappear.

ROBERT HARDY'S SEVEN DAYS

A DREAM AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.

By Rev. CHARLES M. SHELDON.
Author of "In His Steps," "The Crucifixion of Philip Strong," "Malcom Kirk," Etc.

[Copyright, 1900, by Advance Publishing Co.]

There was an awkward pause. Then one man spoke up:

"We think the company ought to give us the day off."

"What for?" asked Mr. Hardy mildly.

Under any other circumstances he would have told the men they might leave for good if they didn't like the pay and the company. He had done just that thing twice before, but things were different now. He looked at the men in a new light. He was a new man himself. Besides, it was imperative that the work in the shops go on. The company could ill afford to lose the work just at this particular time. All these considerations did not blind Robert to his obligations as an officer of the company. He was only anxious that no injustice should be done, so he said, "What for?" mildly and quietly and waited for an answer.

The spokesman was not quite ready with an answer. The directness of the question and the mildness of it also surprised him. Another man spoke up:

"Our friends were in the accident. We want to go see them."

"Very well. How many men had relatives or friends in the accident who are injured or killed? Let them step forward."

There was a moment of inaction. Then three men stepped out. Mr. Hardy said: "You may go if you want to. Why didn't you ask for leave off if you wanted it? What reason have you to suppose the company would refuse such a request? Now, what is the trouble with the rest? The company is not in a position to grant a holiday at this particular time, and you know it. Come, be fair, men! I can't shut down the shops all day to let you go and see a railroad wreck. Be reasonable! What do you want?"

Instantly Mr. Hardy stepped up between the two men before Burns could rise.

"We want more pay and freedom from Sunday work," said a big fellow, the Norwegian who ran the biggest planer in the shop. He had more than once proved troublesome to Burns, but he was a remarkably intelligent and skillful workman, and the foreman had endured much irritation on that account.

Mr. Hardy replied, still speaking pleasantly, "The matter of more pay is one we cannot well discuss here now, but I will say to you and all the rest that as far as it is in my power there shall be no more Sunday work demanded"—"while I live," Mr. Hardy was on the point of saying, but he said instead, "of the men in the shops."

"Still, that is not the question," replied the man in an insolent tone. Mr. Hardy looked at him more closely and saw that he had been drinking. Several of the workmen cried out:

"Shut up, Herman! Mr. Hardy be right! We be fools to make row now at this time!"

A dozen men started for their machines to go to work again, while Burns went up and laid his hand on the Norwegian's arm and said to him roughly:

"Quit off now. You've been dipping that beard of yours into a whisky barrel. Better mind your pegs or you get your walking papers."

"Mind your own, Burns," replied the big man heavily. "You be somethings of a beard drinker yourself if you had the beard."

Burns was so enraged at the drunken retort that he drew back as if to strike the man, when the Norwegian smote the foreman a blow that laid him sprawling in the iron dust. Instantly Mr. Hardy stepped up between the two men before Burns could rise. We have spoken of Robert's intense horror of the coarse physical vices. It seemed totally wrong to him that a workman should degrade himself with drink. Besides, he could not tolerate such actions in the shops. He looked the drunken man in the face and said sternly:

"You are discharged! I cannot afford to employ drunken men in these shops. You may go this instant."

The man leered at Mr. Hardy, raised his arm as if to strike, while the manager confronted him with a stern look, but before he could do any harm two or three of the men seized him and hustled him back to the other end of the shops, while Burns rose, vowing vengeance.

The men went back to their machines, and Mr. Hardy, with an anxious feeling of heart, went back into the office, satisfied that there would be no trouble at the shops for the rest of the day at least. He felt sorry that he had been obliged to discharge Herman, but he felt that he had done the right thing. The company could not afford in any way to employ men who were drunkards, especially not just at this time, when it began to be more than plainly hinted that the result of the accident on the road was due to the partial intoxication of a track inspector.

That accident was a complication in Robert Hardy's seven days. It was demanding of him precious time that he longed to spend in his family. At one time in the afternoon as he worked at the office Mr. Hardy was tempted to resign his position and go home, come what might. But, to his credit be it said, even in his most selfish moments formerly he had been faithful to his duties at the office. At present no one could take his place at once. He felt that his duty to the company and to the public demanded his services at the time of a crisis in railroad matters.

So he staid and worked on, praying as he worked for his dear ones and hoping, as no bad news came from home, that Clara was better. He had been to the telephone several times and had two or three short talks with his wife, and now, as it began to grow dark in the office, just as the lights were turned on, the bell rang again, and Mrs. Hardy called him up to tell him that the minister, Mr. Jones, had called and wanted to see him about some of the families that were injured in the accident in the foundry room.

"Tell Mr. Jones I will try to see him at the meeting tonight." (In Barton the church meeting fell on Wednesday.) "And tell him I will have something to give him for what he wants. How is Clara now?"

"No change yet. Will is suffering some from nervousness. He says he had a horrible dream of the accident this afternoon. Bess is about the same. Her escape was a miracle."

"Has George come home yet?"

"No. I am getting anxious about him. I wish you would inquire about him at the Bramleys' as you come up to supper."

"I will. I must leave very soon. This has been a terrible day down here. God keep us. Goodby."

Sun Bros.' Shows.

From Charlotte News.

The Sun Bros' Shows made their street parade at noon today. They made a very creditable showing on the street. Everything looked clean, neat and in good order, and this condition of affairs on the outside is a safe index to a nice show on the inside. The band was exceptionally good. They will appear here next Monday.—Advertisement.

SEVEN RUNNING SORES CURED

—BY—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

THE GREAT SPRING MEDICINE.

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA as a Blood Food and Nerve Energizer, is the greatest SPRING MEDICINE ever discovered. It comes as a rich blessing from heaven to the "worn out," the run down, the overworked and debilitated. That "tired feeling," those "sinking spells," the languor and despondency which arise from badly nourished nerves, from thin, vitiated blood and an underfed body, vanish as if by a magic spell. The weariness, lassitude and nervous prostration which accompany the spring time and the heat of summer, are conquered and banished at once. For every form of neurasthenia, and all ailments of the brain and nerve, insomnia, hysteria and nervousness generally, it is almost a specific. It furnishes the very elements to rebuild worn-out nerve tissues. It feeds brain, nerve centers and nerves, calming and equalizing their action; it makes rich, red, honest blood. Newness of life, new hope, new strength follow its faithful use. It makes the weak strong, and the old young again.

It was the antiquated (but now happily exploded) method in the good old times, to treat Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Cancer and other troublesome disorders arising from BLOOD TAINT with powerful alteratives, such as mercury, arsenic and other mineral agents. It was expected by this treatment that the poison could be killed while the blood was left to course through its channels holding in its circulation the specific germs of the disease. But in this way, every part of the body became more or less diseased. Nothing can be more terrible than a horribly destructive blood taint. It not only attacks virulently the different structures of the body, but many times the bones are honey-combed and destroyed. It often seeks out the nerves and spinal cord, and again it will bring decay and death to some vital organ, as the kidneys, liver or stomach. There is only one scientific method for the cure of blood taint. That is, PURIFICATION! Every particle of the blood must be removed through the excretory channels, the lungs, kidneys, bowels, liver and skin. "First pure, then peaceable." The great restorative, reconstructive and vitalizer of the blood, JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA, not only radically and exhaustively removes the taint, but also removes all mercury, calomel and other minerals, and fills the veins and arteries with the ruby, glowing current of vitality. "The blood is the life." Good health means pure blood. The old and reliable remedy, JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA, is universally regarded as the greatest Blood Purifier ever discovered. This fact is now established beyond question or cavil.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.

Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION CLOSES

THE LARGEST ATTENDANCE IN FOUR YEARS.

A Most Profitable Meeting—Delegates Pleased With Greensboro—The Services Yesterday.

The annual state convention of the Young Men's Christian Association has adjourned and the delegates have departed for their homes. Many of them went away with words of praise on their lips for Greensboro and the manner in which they were entertained while here.

The program for yesterday's services, as announced Saturday, was in the main carried out, and some good talks were made by the association representatives. The meeting at the court house at 4 o'clock for men, was largely attended and an able address was made by Mr. H. O. Williams, of New York. There was a large attendance at the closing services at First Presbyterian church last night, and the farewell exercises, conducted by Secretary Knebel, were most feeling, and lasted until after 10 o'clock.

President Hendren says the convention just closed was the largest attended in four years. It is quite likely that the next convention will be held in Wilmington.

Services at the churches yesterday were as follows:

AT CENTENARY CHURCH

According to the Y. M. C. A. appointments yesterday, Mr. J. A. McLeod, a student of Davidson College, was to have spoken in Centenary church at 11 o'clock, but declined to do so on the ground that the time was too short for preparation. Therefore the pastor, Rev. T. E. Wagg, preached, and his sermon was one of the best he has delivered during his pastorate at that church.

At night Rev. Dr. J. C. Rowe filled Mr. Wagg's pulpit and preached from the text: "Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." It was a sermon of great spiritual power. Dr. Rowe's definition of conversion was most lucid and clear, and what the Savior meant by the term "become as little children," was made plain. The well dressed child cares nothing for the rags and dirty face of a little playmate. The little heart seeks companionship. Greatness is not determined by the position a man occupies, but by what the man is. These and other thoughts were presented in most forceful and comprehensive language.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

Mr. G. Mebane Smith, secretary of the college Y. M. C. A., of Richmond, Va., spoke at Westminster Presbyterian church at the morning service. He spoke in a most earnest manner on the "Program of Correct Living." On account of the farewell service at First Presbyterian church there was no preaching at night. The Westminster League service at 7:30 o'clock was very enjoyable. Several of the Y. M. C. A. delegates were present and took part in the service.

AT GRACE CHURCH.

At Grace Methodist Protestant church, the morning service was conducted by Mr. O. B. Van Horn, secretary of the Asheville Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. Van Horn based his address—which, by the way, was excellent—upon the account of the leper who came to Jesus and said, "Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. The state of the leper was applied to the sinner. As the leper was a social outcast, debarred from all communication with his fellow men, so the sinner is a moral and spiritual outcast. His malady is more deadly than the leprosy, because it destroys not only the best there is in the present life, but the future life as well. The speaker said that next to the Bible, the Young Men's Christian Association structure was reared upon the foundation of sympathy, which is one of the chief requisites for doing Christian work.

The music was good. The voluntary, R. H. Woodman's "Fear Thou Not," was sung by Mrs. Teague, Miss Weatherly, Mr. Teague and Mr. Wills, and the offertory, Harry Rowe Shelley's duet arrangement of "Pilgrims of the Night," by Mrs. Teague and Miss Weatherly.

AT WEST MARKET.

Services at West Market church yesterday morning were conducted by the pastor who preached from the text found in the fifteenth to eighteenth verses of the sixteenth chapter of Matthew. The sermon was practical and pointed and was attentively listened to by a large congregation. A number of visitors were present, many of them being delegates to the Y. M. C. A. convention. The offertory, "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung by a quartette composed of Miss Lola Carroway, Miss Nan Wood, Mr. Richard Crawford and Mr. W. H. Wood. On account of the union service at First Presbyterian church no service was held at night.

AT ST. BARNABAS.

At St. Barnabas yesterday, Mr. J. Wesley White sang a baritone solo. This young vocalist was never in better voice, and showed a mellowness and culture that is most remarkable in one so young. Text of sermon was taken from Zechariah 7-4: "Rejoice greatly, oh daughter of Zion, shout oh daughter of Jerusalem, behold thy King cometh unto thee, he is just and having salvation, lowly and riding upon an ass." The rector took the ground that the day itself impelled the subject of a sermon, the commemoration of the triumphal entrance into Jerusalem of Jesus only five days prior to his crucifixion by the loud acclaims of the same multitude as would have crowned him on this day. We are to draw near to him this week and review our own lives as the panorama of these momentous events in His life are shown by the services for Holy week, upon which we enter this day.

THE WEATHER CHANGES.

So Does this Column, But Always Something Fresh.

Mr. Jno. A Hodgin is today moving to his recently completed home, south of town.

Ties and fans are tastefully displayed in the window at the ladies' emporium today.

The devotional exercises of West Market Epworth League will be held tonight at 7:45.

Mrs. Samuel Harvey, an aged woman living on Ashe street, is very ill with pneumonia, and is not expected to live.

Mr. E. Y. Webb, of Shelby, will be called by Chairman Simmons to preside temporarily over the democratic convention.

Mr. W. F. Jones, an old and worthy citizen of Graham, died yesterday. He was spoken of as one of the best citizens of his county.

Next Sunday is Easter and Mr. Sam Brown wants all who have promised to aid in the fund for making presents to the orphans at Oxford to send in their contributions at once.

The Vanstory Clothing Company will open their big store to the public tomorrow with not a piece of old goods in the house—everthing this season's goods and latest styles.

The genial and popular L C Howlett, has accepted a position with the new clothing firm of Merritt, Brower & Co. Mr. Howlett is one of the best clothing salesmen in the State, and has a large circle of friends. We congratulate the new firm on securing his services.

Excavating is now being done for the 40x80 foot extension to McCauley's building in front of the passenger station The extension is to one story and is being built for a wareroom for the Hague-McCorkle Dry Goods Co., who have leased the property for a term of years.

One of the best trained and most valuable horses in the city died last night. It was Mr. A. F. Brooks' fox-hunting pony. He was taken sick late in the afternoon and died about nine o'clock. Mr. Brooks was greatly attached to his pony and valued him far beyond his actual worth in dollars and cents.

BOSTON WON

But Oak Ridge Put Up a Stiff and Plucky Fight.

There were few people who expected Oak Ridge to score against Boston in the game here Saturday, and, indeed, it looked like there was no hope of her doing so. In the first inning Boston went to the bat and scored four runs while Oak Ridge was shut out. The next two innings resulted in goose eggs for each team. In the fourth Boston scored one run and Oak Ridge was shut out, while in the fifth Boston piled up four more runs and Oak Ridge was still unable to get further than second base.

Up to this time Wicker was in the box for Oak Ridge, but in the beginning of the sixth Howard was put in. The rest of the game was beautiful work. Howard proved a wizard for Bostons and in the four last innings shut them out entirely. In the last half of the ninth by an error at first Stafford crossed the home plate, scoring one for Oak Ridge. Wild cheers rent the air and the work was fast and furious, one more Oak Ridge boy sped around the diamond and made the score two for Oak Ridge. Boston regained her grip and the rest of the boys "went out."

Score, Boston, 9; Oak Ridge, 2.

Chambers, the left-handed Tar Heel pitcher, was in the box for Boston, and did splendid work.

It was one of the prettiest games ever seen here, and was witnessed by a large crowd. It was orderly throughout, not a kick from any quarter. Both sides played ball. Boston boys expressed surprise at the stiff game put up.

The next attraction on the diamond in this city will be the game next Saturday between Oak Ridge and the University.

THE PLANS NOT HERE.

The Money Has Been Paid for Bonds, and Builders Are Waiting.

Mayor Taylor has received notice that Seasonwood & Mayer, of Cincinnati, have paid over to the city's agent in New York the sum of $38,216 50, purchase money for building bonds recently sold, and that said amount is now with said agents, the United States Mortgage & Trust Co. subject to check of Captain Neil Ellington, treasurer of Greensboro. Everything is now in readiness for pushing the work of erecting the municipal building, except the building plans, which are daily expected to be delivered by the architects, Messrs. Hayden, Wheeler & Schwend. The plans were to have been ready by April 5th and contractors were notified to that effect, but for some cause the work has been delayed.

Several contractors have been here with a view to figuring on the building but were disappointed in not finding the plans ready. Mr. Gates, the local architect of the firm doing the work, says the plans are being pushed, and will be delivered as soon as possible.

Since the above was written Mr. Gates has received a message from the architects in Charlotte saying owing to cloudy weather they had been unable to complete the blue prints of the city hall plans; but that they were rushing them today and hoped to have them here tomorrow. An extra number of the blue prints will be made in order to give all the contractors an equal show in the short time left to get in their bids by the 20th.

Masonic Notice.

A special convocation of Greensboro Lodge, No. 76, A. F. & A. M., will be held at 8 o'clock this (Monday) evening for work in the third degree. Visitors cordially welcomed.

MURRAY BROS.

Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price is now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff.
